Brighton School we'll always love thee,
True our hearts will be,
Far surpassing wealth or prestige
Brighton School 'tis thee!

Now we pledge by word or deed
Our Alma Mater dear,
Loyalty and praise and love
For Brighton's tender care!

Brighton! Brighton! Hail to thee
For thou hast been kind to us,
Ever shall we cherish for thee,
Thoughts of love and trust.

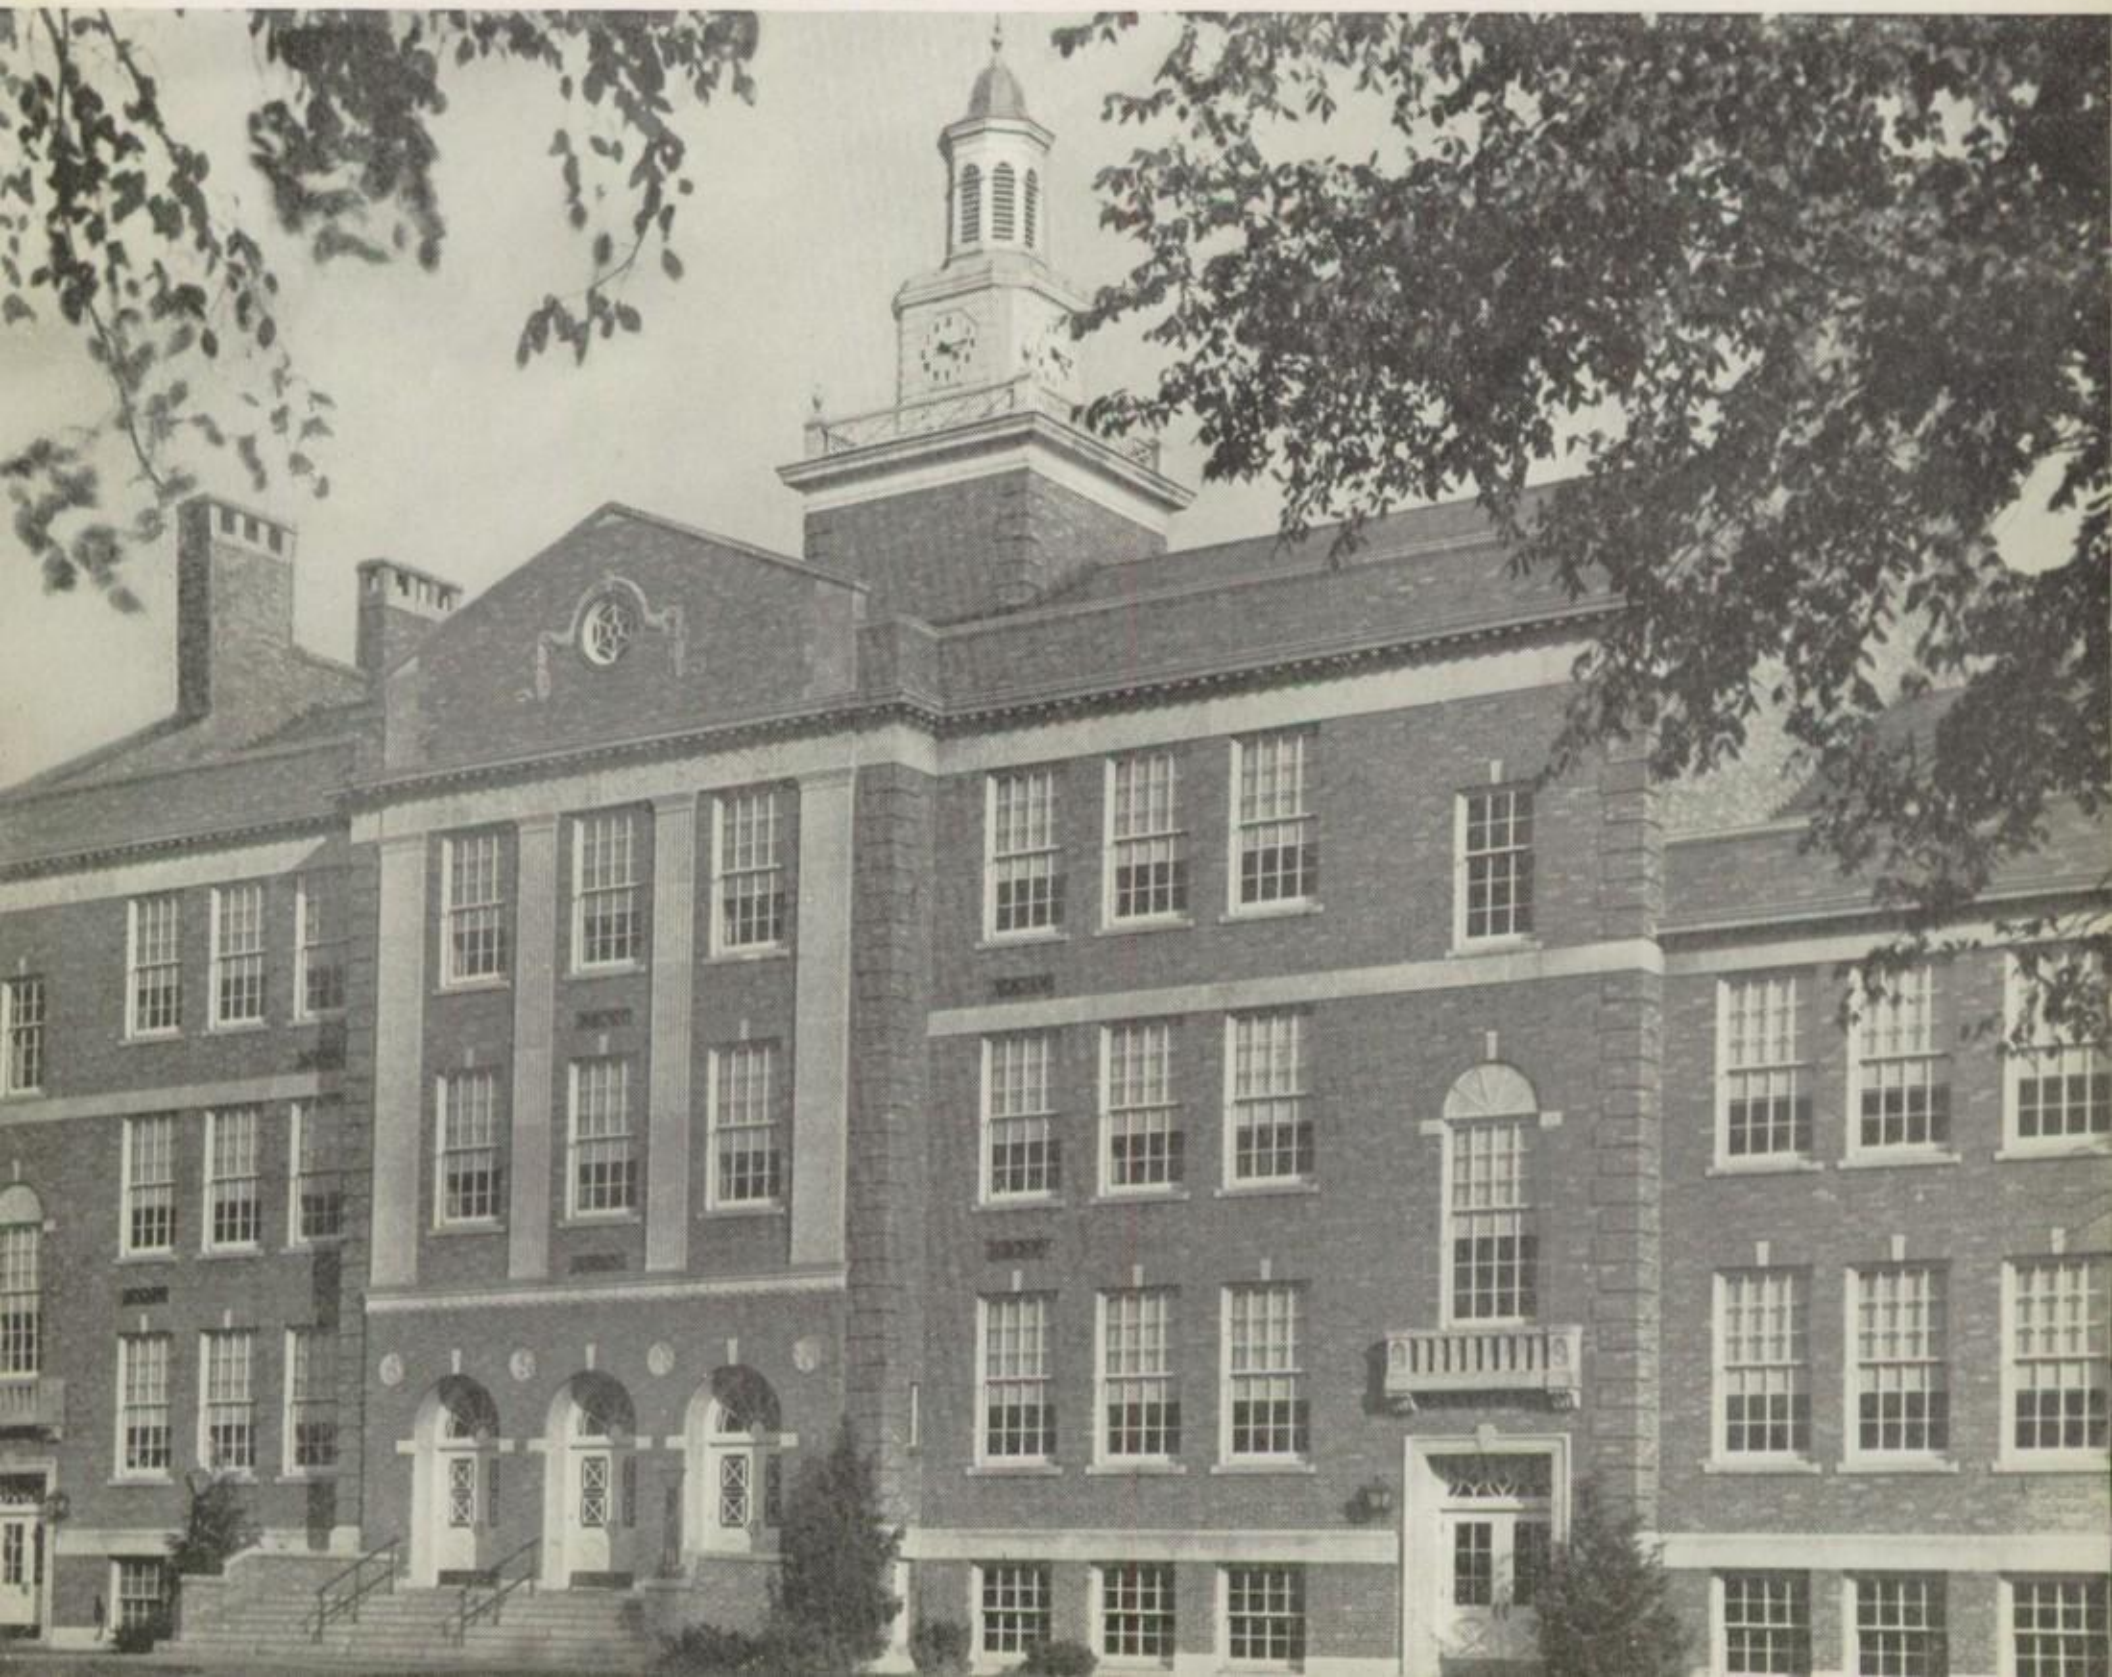
THE SENIOR CLASS

BRIGHTON HIGH SCHOOL

Rochester, New York

roads of 1945



WITH a mixture of pride and sorrow in our hearts, we respectfully dedicate the "Crossroads" of 1945 to those nine Brighton boys who have given their lives in our combat against tyranny, and to those whose fates are as yet concealed under the words, "missing in action."

The whole nation honors our war casualties. Those nine gold stars on our service flag take on even greater significance for us when we realize that they stand for boys whose shouts have echoed through Brighton's hall—boys who sometimes neglected homework for a good movie—boys like those we all know.

Nine gold stars—symbols representing young lives, offered for the cause of freedom—lives that might have been filled with success and happiness. For the families of those boys, what a blighting of hope those stars represent! Of the blue stars, three represent Robert Behnke, Edward Crone and Gerald Smith, all of whom are listed as missing in action, and Paul Basye and Russell Hopcraft, prisoners of war.

We pay tribute to these young heroes. Recompense we cannot give them; we can only thank them with all our hearts and resolve that "these honored dead shall not have died in vain". We must make sure that future generations of Brighton boys, and of boys all over the world, may live happy, useful lives in a peaceful world.

Our Year at Brighton High

. . . was certainly an unusual one. Remember registration day? So many people it looked like a Sinatra fan line-up, but why not—more pupils than the year before, and new teachers, too. Seeing all the fellows in the services roaming Brighton's halls certainly made us proud that our alma mater is taking on its share of the war, and looking at those nine gold stars on our service flag makes us hope it won't have to be taken down to add another star.

Brighton generously emptied its pockets for Red Cross, the infantile paralysis fund, and the campaign to send the local paper to service boys and girls, to say nothing of those weekly bond and stamp drives.

Remember the football season? Bob Haege led us to a mighty successful finish. What a game that one with East Rochester turned out to be! . . . Couldn't stand many of those in one year.

Soccer certainly took the spotlight when we won the sectional crown. Playing in top form, our team defeated West at the sectionals.

Oh, yes, remember that Brighton chose Dewey as the next President of the United States?

We could call this "The Year of the Big Storms". Just imagine six whole days to loaf around —shoveling snow. What gleams of hope when the "no coal" rumors seemed to be coming true—but "good old Brighton" came through with all the heat we needed to warm our frozen extremities.

The basketball games—who could ever forget those crowds, those tied scores with one minute to play? Our ears are still ringing from the "volume yell". It surely seemed to bring results—until that game with East Rochester. Tough luck for Captain John Donohue and his fighting teammates, and a sad moment in our year at Brighton.

The tough part of all that snow and no coal was the curtailment of night activities—no dances, no Teen Canteen—just a drab existence!

By the way, does anyone know what ever happened to the skating rink those energetic boys volunteered to keep clean?

By word and picture we have recorded the high points of the past year. In the pages of the 1945 "Crossroads" we invite you to review with us our year at Brighton High.

Our Administration Sets the Pattern

Our Leaders Point the Way

Standing: Swift, Coapman, Field.
Seated: Wells, Gates, Miles.

The Board of Education of Brighton High School acts as the governing body functioning to elect officers, confirm faculty appointments, and manage other business.

Presiding at its monthly meetings is president, Allen B. Gates assisted by Schuyler C. Wells, vice-president, who handles all school supplies and insurance. Familiar to all Brightonites is Mrs. Edward B. Miles who serves as secretary to the board. Responsible for supervising the financial business is C. E. Coapman, treasurer. L. Dudley Field is in charge of maintenance, while Arnold B. Swift manages transportation.

We, the class of 1945 wish to express our sincere appreciation to the Board of Education for the excellent support they have given to the students and the faculty of our school.

Through A Successful Year

Aubrey D. Donley
Superintendent of Schools

Overseeing our teaching and curriculum, and administering our affairs, Aubrey C. Donley is completing his nineteenth year of service to Brighton school, first as principal and now as superintendent. During this period, he has been largely responsible for Brighton's progress and for its enviable record among New York State schools. Combining his capability with a rare understanding, he has always been able to secure the cooperation of teachers and community, both essential to a successful school.

In the general supervision of our school system, he is aided by Gordon Allen, principal of the high school, and Miss Alice Foley, principal of the grade school.

Mrs. Helen Yawman
Secretary

Our Principals Foster

Gordon F. Allen
High School Principal

Miss Jean Eggleston, Miss Adelaide Schreiner
Secretaries

Guiding hand to Brighton students, Principal Gordon Allen has many diversified duties. Always cooperative with the student body and ready for constructive suggestions, Mr. Allen has guided the way through a successful year.

Adviser to the Student Council, Mr. Allen has willingly cooperated with this group in several innovations in school life. Meeting requests of the student body but still maintaining a high academic ideal have been Mr. Allen's aims during his years here.

As boys' adviser, he has guided seniors in decisions regarding service or college, and underclassmen in planning their high school schedule. Mr. Allen's personal interest in each pupil has gained him the respect and confidence of the student body.

Never too busy to answer students' queries, Miss Jean Eggleston and Miss Adelaide Schreiner assist Mr. Allen in the office.

High Academic Standards

Miss Alice M. Foley
Grade School Principal

Dear to the hearts of all her pupils is Miss Alice L. Foley, grade school principal.

Inaugurated under her supervision was a program of three lunch periods with the Girls' Service Club assisting lower graders, a noontime recreation program, and a story hour in the library.

Movies borrowed from the Metropolitan Museum of National History and the University of Rochester library are shown monthly to enrich the curriculum.

Miss Foley, who visits classrooms regularly to observe her boys and girls, has introduced an extensive testing program to determine individual abilities and aptitudes.

To all her pupils and ex-pupils, Miss Foley will always remain a real friend.

Mrs. Ernestine Vair, secretary to Miss Foley, and Miss Elsie Hass assist in the smooth running of grade school administration.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1945, having taken inventory of what few possessions four strenuous years have left us, and realizing that, improbable as it seems, BHS will doubtless continue to function even without the benefit of our presence, do hereby give, bequeath, get rid of, and bestow our worldly goods as follows:

To the juniors, we leave that momentous decision: caps and gowns or formals?

To the sophomores, we leave the problems of that misunderstood couple of puppy-lovers, "Juliet and her Romeo".

To the freshmen, we leave the consolation of their yo-yos.

To the eighth graders,—well, they have enough ahead of them without our adding to their troubles.

To the grade schoolers, we leave the experience, at some future date, of being the target of snowballs such as those they so gleefully hurled at us last winter.

"Sol" Bloom leaves his unopened English book to some cobwebby corner.

"Dusty" Donohue and Jim Spitz bequeath their prowess in making shots to "Webby".

The seventh period French class leaves Mrs. Fox a sedative.

"Steph" leaves BHS to the rest of her family.

Dwight Van de Vate bequeaths his voluptuous vocabulary, willed on him by Ted Houck, to whoever has enough patience to acquire it.

"Long John" Glasow leaves a few of his spare inches to Willie Lettau.

Janie Pye leaves her shortness to Joanne Evans.

Ginny Hallett gives her diet to Miss Perrin.

Alice Ann Scott willingly wills the stage properties to Moe Clark.

Bob Grate leaves his books to any aspiring junior.

Dick Ness leaves the flash bulbs to Dick Lindgren.

Joan Hays wills her ping-pong paddle to anyone who can get a ball to go with it.

Joyce Paddock and Bev Levinson leave their beautiful friendship to Janice Rumrill and Shirley Kingston.

We'd all like to leave a little money for the various worthy causes always circulating around BHS, but poverty having pervaded our purses and pockets, we are forced to leave only our good wishes.

Signed: CAROL ECKBERG, Executor

ROBERT HAEGE, President

Upon final completion of the trials of poor David Copperfield and the problems of bi-metallism, the Junior classmen leave three full years of high school in their path.

Saddening the hearts of classmates, the death of Bob Toporcer came as a great loss not only to the Junior Class, but to the entire high school. Throughout his high school career Bob participated in sports with unequalled spirit, and remarkable skill. Exhibiting fine qualities of leadership and character, Bob was chosen president of his class at their elections last fall.

Under the leadership of an all-boy group of officers, one hundred and sixty-three middle-classmen delved into the mysteries of how to act as sophomores forty long weeks ago. Now with the accounts of Caesar and the geometry theorems untangled, they are completing a successful and eventful year. To climax the year's activities the class is planning a picnic.

Spurting ahead to "bigger and better" years in their high school career, the 1945 freshmen chose the following officers: president, Jane Yaeger; vice-president, Robert Piper; secretary, Ann Donohue; and treasurer, Jim Reed to preside over class activities. Frolicking through the year amid dances and a skating party of fun and falls, the class climaxed the school year with a picnic in the park on a bright June day.

Saddening the class came the news of the death of Thomas Peavey, our friend and fellow-student, who entered Brighton two years ago. Tom, well liked by all, was a fine fellow whose cheerful and pleasant manner have been missed in Brighton's halls.

Leaving Brighton, and in fact the United States, was Reggie Garwood who returned to England after being in Brighton since the fifth grade.

Entering the high school building in September, over one hundred starry-eyed and bewildered eighth graders felt insignificant again after their inflated feeling in the grade school where they could lord it over their younger friends last year. They soon found their walking distances much shorter than those in the winding grade school.

Brighton's clubs are usually not open to students until they reach the ranks of at least freshmen, but this year for the first time the Dramatic Club opened its doors to the young fry.

During the year the students worked on several projects in their various subjects including English and history, but for the most part the time was spent in studying hard to prepare for those ominous regents in June.

To represent the class in Student Council activities, eighth graders chose Keavin Cleary and alternate, Beverly Evans.

Even though freshmen are labeled "very green", the eighth graders are looking forward to being full fledged members of the high school classes.

Governing Our Activities

Standing: Loehr, Corbett, Clark, Whitney, Evans, London, Miller, Carver. Seated: Lettau, Houck, Ostendorf, Crooks, Wellington, Shutt, Stephany, Freiert, Mr. Allen (Adviser).

Striving toward its goal of betterment of student life, the 1944-45 Student Council completed the most active and successful year of any Council in the history of Brighton High.

Early in October the student body elected Eddie London, president. The group itself at its first meeting chose Jean Stephany, vice-president; Marie Ostendorf, secretary; and Harley Miller, treasurer. Principal Gordon Allen served as adviser to the governing body.

Immediate projects consisted of cooperation with the Parent-Teacher Association in promoting two evening dances in the high school, establishment of a system for aiding new students, sending the November "Trapezoid" to grads in the armed forces, providing gifts for wounded alumni and promotion of war bond and stamp sales. During basketball season, after-game dancing, pep rallies and assemblies were held; while noon-time dancing, long a student desire, became a reality. The Council was also active in aiding and improving cafeteria conditions. Later on, a system of awards for cheer-leaders was established and the whole system of student elections reviewed, with some definite changes being made and others left as suggestions to next year's Council. Highlights of the season were the annual Student Council dance in April and a student-faculty basketball game and dance in March.

Throughout all this activity the Council not only undertook its own projects but acted as an advisory link between the student body and school administration, thereby bringing about many helpful improvements in school equipment and general student life.

Recorders of the Year

Standing: A. Miller, Weiner, Mrs. O'Donnell, Ness, Eckberg, Bohman, Hays, Posner, Lindgren, Surasky. Seated: London, Anne Miller, Levinson, Zaenglein, Frohman, MacKenzie, Wignall, Metter. Seated, front: Purvin, Paddock.

Priorities! Shortages! War restrictions! All were everyday problems for the "Cross roads" for Jean Stephany, editor-in-chief of the 1945 edition and for the faculty adviser, Mrs. Gertrude O'Donnell. Despite these handicaps, the staff completed this book as a review of our last year at Brighton High.

Remember those flashes at games, at assembly programs, in class rooms, here, there, and everywhere? That was "Dick"—Ness or Lindgren to whom goes the credit of practically every candid in this book and many of the formal pictures. The staff and student body owe the "Dicks" many thanks for their work especially in the face of shortages and priorities. Dick Ness, senior, was assisted by Dick Lindgren, sophomore.

Boys' sports came under the versatile Ed London's management. Roger Zaenglein who entered the University of Rochester during the year, was previously elected Ed's assistant. Bev Levinson, girls' sports editor, had as her aide Johann Brown.

Al Weiner, assisted by Joan Hays, supervised the extensive work of activities; Carol Eckberg acted as feature editor supported by Arlene Miller; Anne Miller with Eunice Frohman had charge of the senior section; Joyce Paddock assisted by Dave MacKenzie chronicled class activities.

Jack Vaisey assisted by Eleanor Surasky produced record-breaking sales in their circulation department; Bob Greenberg had as his supporters Jean Yates and Barbara Bohman who had the headaches of balancing the budget. Typists for the book were Judy Posner, Helen Metter, and Betty Purvin, under the direction of Shirley Wignall.

War-time restrictions and weather difficulties may have caused detours on the path of the "Trapezoid", but such problems did not prevent its publishing a paper which in every way conformed to the high standards set by its predecessors beginning ten years ago. At the Syracuse convention of the Empire State School Press Association, attended by six staff members and adviser, Mrs. Gertrude O'Donnell, the "Trapezoid" garnered an all-New York rating and earned individual honors for Jean Criley, George Shaw, and Eddie London. The coveted All-American rating was also awarded to the publication by the National Scholastic Press Association.

Reporters can now wend their way down to the new journalism office located behind the gymnasium, where they may peacefully compose assignments surrounded by Dramatic club scenery, auditorium chairs, practicing musicians, resting athletes and inquisitive fellow students. Here they are joined by journalism pupils in the counting of "heads", reading "galleys", making pasteups, and reading page proofs, all steps in the birth of a newspaper.

Such features as Corner Soapbox, Bach to Boogie, Scoop Snoopin', and Grin and Bear It, supplemented by routine tidings made up the four-page publication. Photographs were taken by Dick Lindgren and Dick Ness; business was in charge of Roger Zaenglein and Joan Hays.

'Spring Green', Dramatists' Pride

Candids: Mad-house in "The Pot Boiler". "Spring Green" rehearsal.

Even before the first robin could announce spring's arrival, the Dramatic Club did just that with "Spring Green", a three-act comedy. Brighton's younger generation took the greatest interest in dramatics this year, with three freshmen, Jim Reed, Jane Yaeger, and Ted Trost capturing important roles in the annual production. Main parts also went to Barbara Bohman, Bud Searle, and George Shaw for characterization. Dave Mueller, pinch-hitting for Jim Reed as the earthworm collector, starred in the final production.

Under the skillful guidance of Miss Margaret Young and Jay Gibson, the Thespians filled the ever-present demand for a student talent assembly featuring a band, several vocal numbers, and a monologue.

Presented early in the year was "The Pot Boiler", a rollicking one-act comedy about the theatrical profession. Characters were skillfully portrayed by Ted Trost, Barbara Bohman, Judy Hallock, George Shaw, Bud Searle, Maurice Clark, and Jack Riffle.

A one-act comedy "His First Shave" was produced for a club meeting after school with Gordon Swain cast in the leading role.

Officers for the year were: Alice Ann Scott, president; Bill Hart, vice-president; Sue Brigham, secretary; and Margaret Luke, treasurer.

Librarians Learn By Doing

The time—3:30. The place—the library—and eighty-five lassies are assembled for their monthly meeting which combines social entertainment with educational benefits to form one of Brighton's most successful clubs. On the educational side, this year, the Library Club was privileged to hear Mrs. Norman Getzin, author of the mystery novel, "Dead Man's Float", at one of its first meetings. Mrs. Getzin divulged many "trade" secrets in telling just how a novelist goes about writing her first book. Social gatherings included the ever-pleasant Christmas party which heralded the annual Yuletide vacation, and the June picnic which terminated the year and announced the triumphant arrival of summer recess.

Former librarian and adviser to the club, Miss Ethel Regin left Brighton during the course of the year after terminating twelve years of faithful service. Succeeding Miss Regin, Miss Dorothy Rice capably handled the reins and together with President Angela Cappellino; Vice-president Joyce Paddock; Secretary Anne McChesney; and Treasurer Jean Miller, the club enjoyed a profitable and interesting year.

Words, Pictures--Their Hobbies

CAMERA CLUBS—Participating in photographic contests highlighted Boys' Camera Club activities. Bill Hart captured top honors with Seaman Ward in a contest sponsored by the Brighton Kiwanis. Dick Lindgren also won the Scholastic Key award at Sibley's in March. Jack Vaisey, vice-president, and Eugene Surasky, secretary-treasurer assisted President Bill Hart.

FORUM—With vital local, national, and international issues at stake, Forum members battled through discussions of American problems under President Ed London, Secretary Carol Eckberg, Program Chairman David MacKenzie, and Advisers Mrs. Ruth Lucy and Miss Arline Walker. In March, military training was discussed at the Allen Creek School.

As president, Carol Eckberg took the reins while Gini Hallett acted as vice-president. Secretary Joanne Cronk and Treasurer Maurice Clark filled the remaining offices. Mrs. Ruth Loomis, Mrs. Norma Fox, and Miss Margaret Van Zile served as advisers to the club.

Populi Romani Sapientes, Brighton's "wise Roman people", highlighted the Roman year with an American Valentine Party. With Mrs. Lillian Follansbee taking over as new adviser, the club carried out several new ideas, besides learning songs and the flag salute in Latin. Consuls Jean Stephany and Beverly Tucker, Quaestor Angela Cappellino, and Aedile Alice Ann Scott appeared at meetings dressed in the familiar Roman toga. A Latin play, treasure hunts, crossword puzzles, and other word games rendered interest throughout the year.

Latin I students prepared an exhibit in connection with their study of Roman life for the front hall showcase in January. Roman calendars, models of a gladiator and a Roman girl, tabellae, bullae, and fasces captured prize positions in the display. Also included were dolls dressed in Roman clothing and various examples of ancient homes.

Through Their Languages

With a Spanish pinata full of surprises, "El Circulo Espanol" highlighted its second year of existence with a typically Spanish party. Monthly meetings under the advisership of Miss Margaret Van Zile and President Shirley Stephany featured Spanish games, songs, skits, and refreshments.

At the first meeting of the year, officers elected were: Jean Beck, vice-president; Marianne Braun, secretary; and Evelyn Weller, treasurer.

Colorful films of Mexican bull fights and dances were shown by Dr. Delos Canfield, professor at the University of Rochester at the March 14 meeting. Speaking in Spanish, Dr. Canfield told about customs south of the border.

Pan-American week was observed when a display of Spanish objects was arranged for the show cases in the front hall.

Brighton Tri-Y girls completed an active year under the able leadership of Miss Marian Perrin. A social-musical quiz program February 28 directed by Mrs. Dorothy Francis of the Y.W.C.A., and a splash party at the Y in March were high points of interest in the year's program. Interest tests were given to many girls in order to determine their vocational preferences. On November 29 a rabbi, priest, and minister spoke on the fundamentals of their religions. Members also contributed their share to the Y.W.C.A. building fund in November.

Officers for the year were Joyce Paddock, president; Anne Miller, vice-president; Joyce Robbins, secretary; Caroline Cooper, treasurer; and Virginia Hallett, music director.

By assisting in school projects and entering into the varied program established by the national and local councils, Brighton Alpha Hi-Y held as its goal "to create, maintain, and develop high standards of Christian living". Presiding over meetings was President Bob Haege, aided by George Shaw, vice-president; Bud Searle, secretary; and Bob Toporcer, treasurer. Adviser was Ross Smith.

At the annual Boys' State assembly at Albany in December, Bob Haege and Bud Searle represented Brighton groups. Activities throughout the year included an inaugural dance in October, an address by Sid Levinson, and a bowling party.

A new group, the Beta Hi-Y was a freshman organization which worked to carry out the ideals it set for itself in September.

The band was organized with Bill Wilkinson as business manager, assisted by John Glasow; Margaret Anthony, librarian; and John Hoffmeister in charge of equipment, aided by Bob Reed. Florence Minion, Pat Ross, Rhea Steffen, Jean Stephany, and Milly Stephany organized a baton corps which made its debut at the football games and performed at a few basketball games.

The trio and triple trio were especially active this year. Both groups sang at the Christmas Tea in December, while the trio participated in many programs outside school.

Both groups were included in the annual spring concert in May.

Christmas carols sung over the speaker system to the entire school comprised the main venture of the Girls' Chorus for the year. In September the girls elected Judy Carver, president; Rhea Lou Evans, secretary; and Jeanne Bishop, Esther Sprague, and Barbara Bohman, librarians.

Officers of the Mixed Chorus were Frank Zahniser, president; Sue Smith, secretary; and Beatrice Zeidler, librarian.

Both groups, under the leadership of Mrs. Doris Campbell, participated in the annual spring concert, which capably exhibited the musical achievements of the year.

For America's Future

Under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Stevens, the new Win-the-Peace Club was organized in September. Headed by Charlotte Jones, president; Roger Lull, vice-president, and Shirley Stephany, secretary, the members met every Tuesday for formal discussion of such topics as post-war problems, cartels, international conferences and agreements.

Station BHS

Aiding the new Radio Club under the direction Miss Arline Walker to formulate program, Jack Ross, of WHAM, and Dorothy Wahl, WSAY, addressed the club at their first and second meetings respectively.

Broadcasting, script writing and producing sound effects were a few of the fields explored. As a climax to a successful year, the club presented "A Man With a Platform", a light comedy, over the loudspeaker system.

Ready to Argue

Completing its first year at Brighton, the Debate club functions in cooperation with the eleventh year social studies class under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Stevens. Jean Criley, president; Shirley Kingston, vice-president; Shirley Stephany, secretary; and Terry Jones, program chairman, presided over club affairs. Debates with three members on each team have been sponsored weekly.

Claire. Best of Luck to you in your future career. Don't ever change. Love, Jackie

Scientific Minds

Culminating from a growing interest in science and scientific research, the Chemistry club began functioning last fall for chemistry students who evidenced a desire for extra-curricular research. Compounding substances such as laughing gas and gun powder (from a safe distance, of course) and research on the ironization of rare gases, were a few of the many projects undertaken.

Under the sponsorship of Gordon E. Van Hooft, chemistry and physics teacher, science pupils have found recreational and vocational interests.

On the Home Front

Merger of the Home Economics Club and the Health Club under the directorship of Miss Alice Stafford and Miss Marian DeVisser took place this year. Home and health problems including essentials of good grooming were topics included in the club program. President Marie Owens was assisted by Vice-president Elinor Cleary, Secretary Joan DeGelleke, and Treasurer Jean Beck. The club inaugurated its own newspaper, edited by Jean Madsen. Guest speakers and refreshments highlighted meetings.

With Brush and Pen

Meeting monthly, Art Club members spent an active year with pencils and paint brushes. Officers were Beverly Tucker, president; and Claire Sippil, secretary-treasurer, with Mrs. Hermia Railing, adviser. Several entries of art club members were displayed at the Scholastic Art Exhibit in March, in which contest Joyce Gorman won the Key Award. Six members demonstrated their work at this time. In cooperation with the Red Cross, the club made Christmas decorations for army camps and hospitals.

A seven-week course including instruction on the operation of a firearm, safety precautions, sling adjustment, sight adjustment, and the four fixing positions was an innovation in the Rifle club this year. Starting with a membership of forty-one, largest in the club's history, organization was rather difficult, but was aided by government-issued ammunition. Meeting for the first time September 28, the club continued regular Thursday meetings until May 25. As an added feature this year members have been shooting for special War Department awards as well as the National Rifle Association medals. Obtained this year was a new rifle for general club use.

Bowlin, Hart, Mr. Lucy, Beck.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lucy, advisers, have this year helped keep the club going under adverse conditions of weather, ammunition scarcities and the limited size of the available range.

Bob Bowlin headed the group as president; Dick Zobel, vice-president; John Glasow, secretary; and Frank Zahniser, treasurer. Bill Hart, Bob Bowlin, and Frank Zahniser were appointed assistant instructors to help handle the large number of members.

Our Sports Won Top Honors

Wearing the County Crown

"Beefo" gains around end.

Right into Dusty's hands

Using the "T" formation for the first time in history, Brighton's 1944 football squad completed the line of championships won by local athletic squads since the 1943-44 basketball season, by gaining a tie for the Monroe County football championship. Boasting a record of five wins and one loss, the squad shared title honors with East Rochester and lost its only contest to Webster when a disputed Brighton touchdown was ruled void.

During the season the locals scored one hundred and seven points, while the opposition came up with thirty-nine, and during only one contest did the BHS men trail at half-time. Cited for outstanding play by being named "All-County" were Harley Miller, "brain" of the "T"; Tom Burge, leather-lugging fullback; Captain Bob Haege, star tackle; and Al Steuber, the bone-crushing lineman.

The season's starting lineup saw John Donohue and Don Hoesterey at ends, Al Steuber and Bob Haege at the tackle posts, Jerry Havill and Bill Niesen at guards, John Bloom at center, Harley Miller at quarterback; Jack Reitz and Jim Spitz at halfback, and Tom Burge at fullback.

In his first year as football coach, Gordon Van Hooft was assisted by Ray Bell and student managers, Walter Agnew, Martin Messinger, Reggy Garwood, and Chuck Benjamin. Several lettermen will return to form the nucleus of next season's squad.

Brighton 18—Albion 0

In its opening encounter of the season, Brighton journeyed to Albion for a non-league fray which the "T" boys took easily, 18-0.

Brighton 19—Irondequoit 7

Beginning the regular league schedule, the locals triumphed over the Baysiders before a capacity home crowd by a 19-7 score. Pacing the local attack were Donohue, Burge, and Reitz, while Bloom and Haege starred defensively.

Brighton 7—Webster 12

In a hotly contested game at Webster, Brighton was defeated 12-7 in its only loss of the year. After trailing 7-6, Webster scored in the last four minutes of play and was unable to be overtaken when a fifteen-yard holding penalty and a disputed touchdown pass halted a late Brighton drive.

Brighton 27—Canandaigua 20

A spirited Brighton eleven upset Canandaigua on the local gridiron 27-20 in a non-league contest. Burge, Miller, Donohue, Spitz, and Haege were outstanding for the victors who came back in the second half after trailing 20-14 at intermission.

Brighton 30—Fairport 0

Going on a scoring rampage, the locals subdued Fairport 30-0 to keep in the running for the county title. Steuber, Bloom, and Hoesterey stood out defensively, while scoring was well divided with substitutes playing a large part of the game.

Brighton 6—East Rochester 0

With a Miller-to-Hoesterey pass clicking for the only score of the game, Brighton downed East Rochester in the final contest of the year to gain a tie with the Pianotowners for the Monroe County league championship.

In one of its finest seasons since the innovation of the sport at BHS, Brighton's soccer aggregation worked its way to the 1944 Section V N.Y.S.P.H.S.A.A. title. Despite several injuries and a heavy schedule, the booters amassed a record of six wins, three defeats, and one tie.

Under the able leadership of Coach John Cox and Captain Joe Summerhays, the team downed Brockport in the only two league contests to gain the county crown, and edged West in a 1-0 thriller to occupy the sectional throne.

Leading the team in scoring honors was Captain Joe Summerhays who booted in seven counters, one of which came in the crucial battle with West. Following closely were Gil Roberts and Pete Jeffries with six points each. Gil earned the distinction of playing four quarters in every game, while Pete held down the all-important wing post. Other top scorers were Don Mackay, Bud Searle, and Gordie Swain, each with two tallies to his credit.

Important cogs in the championship fight were John Glasow, whose outstretched arms and elongated frame protected the goal area, and Charlie Spiller, whose work in the fullback slot foiled many scoring attempts of the opposition. Bill Wilkinson and David Mackenzie added much zest both offensively and defensively by their steady, accurate play. Bill Hart, who suffered a broken jaw early in the season but came back magnificently later on, Versage, Saurbier, and Bowlin also saw considerable action. Much credit goes to Coach Cox who, despite a lack of soccer experience, built a great team through his persevering effort. Manager Dwight Van de Vate, too, comes in for a word of praise because of his efficient, good-natured accomplishments.

Several of both the regulars and substitutes of this year's squad will return next season to defend the sectional crown.

The 1944-45 basketball season might rightfully be termed the "Up-hill-Fight". Though dogged by more than its share of injuries the team never gave up and kept fighting right up to the county title play-offs.

This year's league schedule was divided into two halves with the winners of each half playing for the championship. In the first half Brighton lost to East Rochester and Irondequoit, but came within two points of the latter who copped first half honors. A three-way tie in the second half came about as a result of East Rochester's defeat of Irondequoit, Brighton's defeat of East Rochester, and Irondequoit's defeat of Brighton. In the play-offs which followed, Brighton downed Irondequoit, 29-27, but later lost to East Rochester in a heart-breaker, 27-25.

The team played over half its schedule without the services of Captain "Dusty" Donohue and Jim Spitz, neither of whom reached top form as a result of injuries suffered on the gridiron. George Shaw was also lost through the injury route, and the illness and subsequent death of Bob Toporcer saddened the hearts of the entire squad and student body.

Despite the injury plague, good reserves, plenty of fight, and the able tutoring of Coach Jim Smith kept the team in the thick of it at all times. Bud Searle, Charlie Spiller, and Bob Kemler shared senior managerial duties.

Intramurals Win Interest

Crushing all opposition in their path, the Commanders drove to the "A" league intra-mural title for the second time in their three years of existence. Following closely were the 4½F's who finished second with only one defeat, and the Gridders and Signets who tied for third place.

In "B" league competition, the Remnants nosed out the Devils and the C.C's to take top honors. Intramurals this year attracted far greater enthusiasm than in any other season on record.

Meet the Track Team

Heading for their fourth consecutive county championship, Brighton's track forces engaged in dual meets prior to the county event and sectionals. With several of last year's stars returning, Coach Jim Smith whipped his charges into shape early in April.

Cross-Country Runners

Occupying track interest in the fall was cross-country, with Brighton well-represented by six distance runners.

Baseball Monopolizes Finis

Under the wacthful guidance of Coach Robert Collins, the 1945 baseball squad was well on its way to another successful season. Defending titlists of the 1944 campaigns, the squad was bolstered by the return of veterans Jack Wilson and George Anthony on the mound, Gordon Yingling in the outfield, Don Mackay and Jack Reitz in the infield, and Sol Bloom behind the plate.

Unseasonal April weather enabled the diamond-men to get into shape earlier than in past seasons. Before the opening game, returning letter-men picked Jack Reitz captain of the squad. As the "Crossroads" goes to press, practice games with Pittsford and East High Schools are on tap, while a ten-game league schedule will get under way later in the month.

Netmen String Up Victories

As the "Crossroads" went to press, the 1945 tennis team had begun operation, though lacking a coach. In so far as possible a regular schedule was in operation with veterans John Yaeger, Bill Wilkinson, Len Block, Dave MacKenzie, and Seaman Ward returning to bolster the squad.

They Guide Our Spirits

Foremost stimulus to student morale throughout the season's athletic contest was our ever-spirited cheer leaders. Hampered by lack of formal instruction and facilities for regular practice, the group nevertheless developed a high degree of proficiency. Games, pep rallies, and assemblies provided proving grounds for the "lung-lusties."

Carrying on the high sports standards of BHS during the 1944-45 season, Ross Smith, Robert Collins, Gordon Van Hooft, and John Cox coached the major boys' sports. Mr. Smith piloted his basketball charges through a highly successful season despite injuries which would have thoroughly discouraged an ordinary coach. He also guided swimming and track. Mr. Van Hooft coached the football squad to a tie for the county championship, and Mr. Cox led the soccer team to the sectional title. Mr. Collins handled the baseball squad, defending county champions.

Intramural Fans

Brighton girls led an active life in sports this year under the management of Miss Jean Bradfield, physical director, who joined our faculty last September.

Before the termination of school last spring, Mrs. Slack and Miss Means, both former physical education directors, selected Jean Stephany, Arlene Zimmer, and Alice Ann Scott as aides to Miss Bradfield. These assistants have been helpful during the year in developing a full sports schedule and also in supervising the traditional tea and banquet.

Two girls' leaders classes chosen on merits of skill, dependability and leadership, assist Miss Bradfield in gym classes.

Last fall the girls made the most of the good weather and carried out a successful soccer program. Seniors bowed their grizzled heads in congratulation to the sprightly sophomores who under the captainship of Barbara Henderson, defeated Joanne Wilson's team 4-0.

With the appoach of winter, volleyball and basketball took the limelight. Carol Conheady's basketball team topped all others for the championship. In girls' class frays, seniors under the captainship of Carol Conheady, and sophomores under Margie Spitz tied for first place, until the play-off forwarded top honors to the seniors.

Spring activities began with a large turnout for baseball and tennis. Under the guidance of Miss Bradfield and Arlene Zimmer, girls had the opportunity of instruction in this sport.

Credits were awarded toward numerals, letters, and monograms for participation in the various sports, and extra points were given for being a captain or member of a winning team.

Miss Bradfield and her three assistants planned the traditional Christmas tea, and also the Girls' Sports banquet both of which are highlights in the realm of girls' sports.

Soccer champs: Henderson, Weterrings, Smith, Waibel, Jones, Strauchen, Owens, Emery, Shutt, Sprague.

Basketball victors: Levinson, Scott, Hecker, Hays, Adams, Wilson, Conheady.
